«HUMANS IN THE INFORMATION SOCIETY»

26-28 April 2023, Samara

Conference location: Institute of Social Sciences and Humanities of the Samara National Research University named after academician S.P. Korolev (1 Akademika Pavlova st., Samara)

Conference website: <http://human.ssau.ru>

The current time is the time of change. Our civilization is in the state of bifurcation, its future forms and ways of self-reproduction are not predictable. The human environments and ways of existence, self-understanding and self-preservation manners are changing. The transgression source is a complex entanglement of the scientific and technological progress and social and economic public mechanisms, causing, on the one hand, the fulfillment of the Russian cosmists' dream about the world and human transformation, and on the other hand, - a planetwide ecological collapse.

The human environment – the second and third artificial nature – is getting saturated with autonomous intelligent systems, the "information society" of the first third of the XXI century is a transitional stage between the "industrial society" and the "superintellectual society of creators". A discussion of the human role and future is inconceivable apart from the synthesis of humanitarian, technical and natural science knowledge. The Samara University Social and Humanitarian Institute is holding the regular scientific conference "Humans in the Information Society" in order to discuss the changes that the humans and society are facing, to find the tradition-progress interaction points to identify the ontologies of social processes through the convergence of the humanitarian disciplines.

We invite researchers and scientists, educators and post-graduate students to participate in the conference!
